ADVANCE Scheduling Option Associate of Applied Science Business Concentration, Business & Management

ADVANCE represents an accelerated scheduling option for completing a college degree. This option is suitable for highly motivated and mature adults who are seeking an AAS in the Business Concentration, Business and Management. Many ADVANCE students obtain their AAS in two and a half years at CSCC and continue to pursue their BS in two additional years at a selected four-year college or university.

The typical ADVANCE student might be an individual who has experienced limited job promotions and wants to increase his/her opportunities for a different or higher paying career which requires a college degree. The courses are predetermined, which makes the registration process easy. Most classes meet seven times during a five-week period and classes are always in the evening.

The ADVANCE schedule also allows students to meet full-time enrollment requirements for financial aid.

For ADVANCE information or an appointment, please call Cleveland (423) 478-6245 or (800) 604-2722, Ext. 245 or Athens (423) 745-8486.

Distance Learning

To accommodate the many types of students and their learning styles, CSCC offers distance learning courses which are conducted totally or in part on an off-campus basis. These courses are offered in a variety of formats including traditional online instruction, virtual courses, site-to-site digital classrooms and video courses. Students enrolling in distance learning courses need to be self-motivated, good time managers and have a basic knowledge of computers and the Internet. For a survey to determine if web-based courses are right for you, please go to www.clevelandstatecc.edu/students/web_screening.asp.

Traditional Online Instruction

Traditional online instruction provides accessibility to courses 24 hours a day through the Internet utilizing the statewide learning management system called Online@CSCC. These courses are accessed by clicking on the icon inside the CougarNet portal and can be identified in the class schedule with the section label “www.”

Online@CSCC students should have a recent model computer and be connected to the Internet through a reliable Internet Service Provider (ISP). It is strongly recommended that the minimum Internet connection be a high speed dial-up connection of at least 56kbps. A broadband or DSL connection is preferred.

Students enroll in Online@CSCC courses the same as enrolling in regular courses. The student will then be provided access to the online course on the first day of classes. Some online courses require attendance at an on-campus orientation session, but no additional on-campus class attendance is required. Tests may require physical attendance at the Testing Center on either the Cleveland or Athens campus, or the instructor may employ special security software with the learning management system.

Student support is provided 24 hours a day through a Help Desk, and faculty members are available through on-campus office hours, telephone, email and, in some cases, virtual online office hours. Access to a variety of guides and self-help tutorials is available on the CougarNet portal, and additional help is available in the eLearn Lab located in the Media Center.

Virtual Courses

A growing number of real-time courses are accessible live by way of audio/video web conferencing on the Internet utilizing a special application called Elluminate. Web-based Elluminate courses are designated with a V (e.g., 7V0) in the section label of the class schedule.

Virtual web-based courses offer maximum flexibility to students by making it possible for them to be in a live class without having to travel to campus. To access the course, students receive an email from the instructor with a link to the live virtual classroom.

Students enrolling in virtual courses should have access to a recent model computer with at least a 1.6 MHz central processing unit, a 100 GB hard drive and 2-3 GB of RAM memory. A microphone and speaker set, or headset with microphone, is required. A good quality webcam with microphone is recommended. The computer’s operating system must be at least Windows XP. Additional software will be provided with the first-time use of Elluminate. Internet connection through a reliable ISP is critical, and either a broadband or DSL connection is recommended. For students who do not have access to the technology required for a virtual course, a limited number of accommodations are available at the Cleveland campus and the Athens and Madisonville sites.

Students enroll in Elluminate virtual courses the same way as enrolling in regular courses. On or prior to the first day of class, the student will be contacted by email with an invitation to join the virtual course. Most virtual courses require attendance at an on-campus orientation session, but no additional on-campus class attendance is required. Tests may require physical attendance the Testing Center on either the Cleveland or Athens campus, or the instructor may employ special security software that integrates with Elluminate.

Student support is available through the Media Center, and faculty members are available through on-campus office hours, telephone, email and virtual online office hours. The Elluminate website provides access to a variety of guides and self-help tutorials. Additional assistance is available in the eLearn Lab located in the Media Center.

Site-to-Site Digital Classrooms

CSCC offers group-to-group instruction through Elluminate web conferencing to tie together distance learning rooms between the Cleveland and Athens campuses. Each distance learning facility is a real-time virtual group learning center in which the instructor and students utilize computers, digital cameras, video projectors, a sound system and the Internet to provide a classroom-like environment. These courses are designated with a T (e.g., 6T0) in the section label of the class schedule.

In a site-to-site digital classroom, a faculty member is physically located in a live class at either the Cleveland or Athens campus. The instructor’s presentation is digitally uploaded in real time and is immediately available to students at the other campus site under the guidance of a distance learning monitor. The session can be saved by the instructor and made accessible to students 24 hours a day through the Internet. Guest presenters from anywhere in the world may also address students at either of the distance learning locations.

Support is available from an on-site distance learning monitor as well as by faculty members through on-campus office hours, telephone, email and virtual on-line office hours.

Video Courses

Video courses are available at both the Cleveland and Athens campuses and are offered through VHS tape, DVD or online streaming video.

VHS tapes require standard VHS videotape playback equipment. A limited number are available at the Cleveland State Library. DVD requires the student to have access to a standard DVD player. Streaming video, which is becoming the preferred method for video content distribution, uses a web-based delivery system requiring Internet access. It is strongly recommended that students using this delivery method have access to a computer with a 1.6 Mhz central processing unit, 100 GB hard drive, 2 GB of RAM memory and at least a DSL or equivalent broadband Internet connection. Video courses are designated with an 800 number in the section label of the class schedule.

Students enroll in video courses the same as enrolling in regular courses. Following enrollment on or prior to the first day of class, the student will be contacted by the instructor. Most video courses require attendance at an orientation session on campus, but no additional on-campus class attendance is required. Tests usually require attendance at the Testing Center on either the Cleveland or Athens campus.

Each video course is facilitated by a faculty member at either the Cleveland or Athens campus, and additional support is provided by faculty through on-campus office hours, telephone, email and, in some cases, virtual online office hours. Some instructors may require enrollment in Cleveland State’s learning management system, Online@CSCC. Additionally, help understanding the operation of a VHS, DVD player or accessing streaming video is available in the eLearn Lab in the Media Center.

Regents Online Degree Program (RODP)

In 2001, the Tennessee Board of Regents colleges, universities, and technology centers joined in a collaborative effort to offer a full range of graduate and undergraduate degrees, certificates, and diplomas online through Regents Online Degree Programs. (RODP) The program offers more flexible and accessible education options for Tennesseans. The online education offered through RODP mirrors the same education offered at the physical campus locations. Students have the opportunity to choose a “home campus” from among the six universities awarding Bachelor’s and Master’s degrees, the 13 community colleges providing Associate degrees and the 27 Technology Centers offering technical certificates and diplomas. RODP delivers education to your desktop—at home, at work, on the road, at the library, or any place where you have a computer and internet access.

guarantees admission, as a junior, to all public universities in the state provided you also meet the specific program requirements.

Cleveland State also has many transfer arrangements with private universities throughout the state in specific programs.

For more information about any of our transfer programs, contact the Cleveland State ACCESS Center at 478-6217 or visit them in the George L. Mathis Student Center, suite U118. To view the TBR Transfer site go to www.tntransferpathway.org.
